Agenda

- 8:30 a.m. – Registration, McKimmon Center
- 8:45 a.m. – 1:30 p.m. (includes lunch for registered participants)
  - Welcome and remarks
  - Seminar Keynote speakers:
    Dr. Kirby Barrick, Dean, College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, University of Florida. Dr. Barrick is an active leader in the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges and is recognized by NACTA as an outstanding teacher and scholar. Dr. Barrick will draw from research and discuss “What we know about how they learn.” How do we learn? Participants will complete the Gregoric Style Delineator for Adults and interpret the results with Dr. Barrick. How do our learning preferences and style characteristics shape the way we teach and communicate information with others? How do we teach them? In our classrooms, our laboratories and/or our communities? Break out discussion sessions will follow.
  - Discussion Breakout Sessions:
    - Models for Collaboration for Distance Education with Community Colleges (Sampson, Rowan/Cabarrus, and other initiatives)
    - Models of Faculty Engagement with Student Research Opportunities - UG Research: Dr. Barthalmus, Ms. Jenny LaMonte (Fellowship Advising)
    - Models for teaching, research and community outreach
  - Dr. Steven Leath, Vice President for Research, University of North Carolina system. “The UNC System’s perspective of the NC Research Campus at Kannapolis”
  - Dr. Steven Lommel, Assistant Vice Chancellor for Research and Interim Associate Dean for Research in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. Dr. Lommel currently serves as the College liaison with the Kannapolis project and will address challenges and strategies for faculty members with research and teaching or extension appointments in a transforming institution.
  - Q & A dialogue with the Dean and Associate Deans
  - Lunch
    - Recognition of CALS Faculty Senators
    - College of Agriculture and Life Sciences overview: Dean Johnny Wynne
  - Wrap-up by Dr. Barrick