TRANSFORMING the FUTURE
CALS Donor Recognition Event
Sunday, February 17, 2013
October 9, 2012…the Prestage family named the Department of Poultry Science in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. This is the first named department in CALS…but surely won’t be the last!

CALS researchers Hosni Hassan and Matt Koci recently won a $2.5 million grant to combat salmonella.

In January, the plant pathology department and Bayer CropScience partnered to create a new graduate student fellowship.

From crops to cows to cream: Last November’s milking center dedication highlighted our innovative approach to dairy science and education. Dean Rich Linton, Tom Kenan and Dairy Enterprise System Director Gary Cartwright were among those who cut the ribbon at the dedication.

The David Smith Initiative for Research Stations and Field Labs was launched in September 2012 to honor Smith and thank him for his years as faculty member, Extension specialist and administrator in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences.

The Wynne Fund for Innovation, to support activities addressing agricultural and life sciences challenges, was established to honor Dean Johnny Wynne at his June 2012 retirement. Jim Oblinger, Randy Woodson, Johnny Wynne, Bill Collins, Kendall Hill, Charles Davenport, Lawrence Davenport and Bill Culpepper display the fundraising total (which has now been surpassed).
